The kingdoms best warriors gathered, surrounded by the most deadly of creatures for the fight for their survival.HONG KONG – A Hong Kong boat building company said on Friday its latest vessel, a replica of the world's oldest surviving ship - better known as the “Titanic” - could be launched by the end of the year after starting construction a month ago. John Hood, chief executive of the Hong Kong-based Advanced Design and Engineering Ltd., told reporters his company received the first steel sections of the hull of the replica of the “Titanic” on Jan. 23 after a long and complicated design process. The 106-meter vessel is being built in the United States and will be the world's first replica of the Titanic to hit the open sea, Hood said. It will be launched from North Vancouver on Canada's British Columbia coast and is expected to be ready for tourism in 2016. The wooden hull of the "Titanic" was launched as she prepared to sail on her maiden voyage in 1912. The vessel sank on her maiden voyage in April 1912,
